

Middle East Math

Changing Dollars: You are traveling all over the Middle East. You will be staying for a different length of time in each country, so your family has given you a different amount of money to spend in each country. Use the currency conversion sheet and your knowledge of multiplication to change your American dollars into the money of each country that you visit. SHOW YOUR WORK on a separate piece of paper!

Example: In Egypt, \$10 equals how many Pounds? $\$1 = 6$ Pounds. So $10 \times 6 = 60$.

1. In Egypt, $23 equals how many Pounds?
2. In Saudi Arabia, $12 equals how many Riyals?
3. In Algeria, $56 equals how many Dinars?
4. In Iran, $11 equals how many Rials?
5. In Libya, $25 equals how many Dinars?
6. In Afghanistan, $25 equals how many Afghanis?
7. In Azerbaijan, $17 equals how many Manats?
8. In Saudi Arabia, $47 equals how many Riyals?
9. In Syria, $39 equals how many Pounds?
10. In the United Arab Emirates, $16 equals how many Dirhams?
11. In Israel, $46 equals how many Shekels?
12. In Kuwait, $52 equals how many Dinars?
13. In Turkey, $35 equals how many Liras?
14. In Morocco, $33 equals how many Durhams?
15. In Tunisia, $24 equals how many Dinars?
16. In Yemen, $24 equals how many Rials?
17. In Jordan, $14 equals how many Dinars?
18. In Iraq, $14 equals how many Dinars?

Deal or No Deal: You plan to use $10 to buy a small gift in each country. In each of the problems, you a merchant has made you an offer for something that you want to buy. Calculate how much it comes to in American dollars. Then decide if you can afford to make the deal. If it comes to less than $10, then you can! SHOW YOUR WORK on a separate piece of paper!

Example: In Egypt, there is a beautiful necklace for 65 pounds. $1 = 6 Pounds. So $65 \div 6 = $10.83$. Since that is more than $10, it is too expensive, so NO DEAL!

1. In Morocco, there is a fun rap CD for 96 Dirhams. Can you afford it?
2. In Jordan, there is a nice wall hanging for 8.4 Dinars. Can you buy it?
3. In Syria, you see some earrings for 427.50 Pounds. Does this fit in your budget?
4. In Israel, you see a small carving for 28 Shekels? Deal or no deal?
5. In Afghanistan, you are thinking of buying a doll for 414 Afghanis. Can you?
6. In Algeria, there's a soccer ball that costs 720 Dinars. IF your parents say that there is room in your suitcase, can you buy this?
