

Evidence Card for Investigator #3 – Indian Ocean coast

Near Salalah, the beaches on the Indian Ocean are reminiscent of Oman's long history of multi-cultural interaction. As always, fishermen ply their trade – though most of today's fishermen are South Asian, rather than Omani. The beachfront towns of the Dhofar region are also located on the sea lanes joining south Asia, the Arabian peninsula (on which Oman is located), and nearby East Africa. Closer to hand, the area is a very short distance from the border of war-torn Yemen.
