The school does not have the money to buy water rights from the village behind the oasis, and the village cannot afford to donate the scarce resource.
The students get their drinking water from this spring.
There are interesting toads in this tiny spring.
As this school doesn’t have running water, this means that it does not have bathrooms.
While your first instinct may be to laugh, if you had to live that way for even a week, it would not seem funny to you, at all.
The lack of bathrooms is one of the reasons that many of the girls drop out of school at about the age of 12.

Societal Water Use
This is an example of a complicated line of wells that used to bring water from the base of far away mountains to the crops in an oasis...
This is a part of the line of wells.
