Center for Middle Eastern Studies

For the past twenty-seven years, the UA Center for Middle Eastern Studies (CMES) has organized and hosted an annual photography exhibit featuring images from the Middle East and North Africa taken by CMES friends, faculty, students, colleagues, local community members, and citizens of the world. Selected photos are enlarged, mounted, and displayed in the Center and remain on display throughout the year. This year CMES will also be taking images on a traveling photography exhibit. The main exhibit will open in early 2018.

“ACTION!” PHOTO SUBMISSION

For the 27th annual exhibit “ACTION!” CMES seeks images that reflect the myriad movements of people, animals, and things in Middle Eastern and North African societies. How do people, animals, and objects move through daily life? This year is the first year CMES is adding sub-themes to our main call for “ACTION!” photos: horses and livestock, agriculture, and water in arid climates. All “ACTION!” photos, regardless of whether they fall within the sub-themes, will be considered for this exhibit. The theme can be broadly defined to include, for example, celebrations that join families and communities; personal relationships; sporting or community events; political events; migration; international relations; educational programs; water irrigation systems; agriculture and livestock; parks, bridges, roadways; etc. Be creative in interpreting the theme!
